

Let us always remember the consequences of the words that we speak. Those who hear the things we say

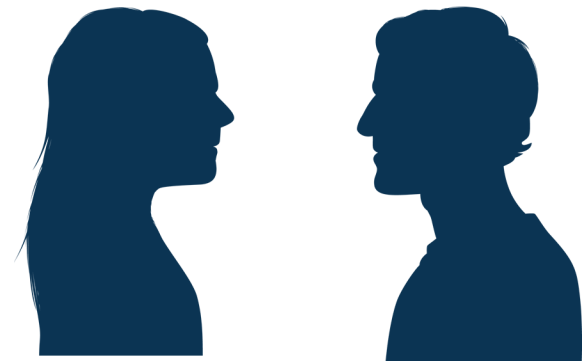

They are either deified or defiled.

We easily forget what we say, but others do not. Our words stick on them like viruses.

Our speech ought to be seasoned with salt

so that it edifices and builds up our listeners, even if they are merely eavesdropping.

Rev. Conrad Mbewe, pastor
Kabwata Baptist Church in Lusaka, Zambia

MasterThink[®] INC