

If someone who had never met you followed you around throughout your day (or week), observing what you do and how you use your time, energy and money, would that person be able identify what your greatest values and priorities are?

Would he or she be accurate?

—Teresa Romain

MasterThink<sup>INC</sup>